An abstract line drawing in black ink on a white background. The drawing depicts a table and chairs. A horizontal line at the top represents the table surface. From this line, several curved lines descend to represent the legs of the table and chairs. On the left, a single curved line descends to the bottom left. On the right, a more complex structure of lines descends, with one line curving towards the bottom right and another line branching off to the right, ending near the top right. The overall style is minimalist and gestural.
